

FNOMO.COM INSTITUTIONAL PARTNERSHIP PROPOSAL

Equipping the next generation with financial literacy, real-world decision-making, and global opportunity.

An Initiative of Fintoma Technology Limited (Athlone, Ireland)

About Fnomo

Fnomo (fnomo.com), a product of Fintoma Technology Limited (Ireland), is bringing this program to select schools.

Fnomo is a stock analysis tool that lets everyday investors filter through tens of thousands of stocks across the globe — by value, growth, or momentum — without needing a Wall Street team behind them.

We've brought the same rigour into education. Fnomo Young Investor is a structured learning experience that teaches students to think like investors — to evaluate opportunities, understand consequences, and take ownership of outcomes.

What Students Experience

Real-World Financial Scenarios

Students don't learn theory in isolation. They engage with real market conditions, real data, and real decision-making — within a controlled, supervised environment.

Applied Financial Knowledge

Theory becomes practice. Students apply structured thinking to wealth management, investment analysis, and financial decision-making — developing skills that serve them for decades.

Decision-Making & Responsibility

Students build the mental frameworks and accountability mindset required to manage money confidently and make sound financial choices throughout their lives.

Education Gap: Earners vs. Wealth Managers

There's a critical gap between those who earn money and those who manage wealth. Fnomo Young Investor bridges this divide, enabling students to eradicate the gap between earners of money and wealth managers — transforming passive earners into active wealth builders.

This is not a generic financial awareness session — it's a hands-on, outcome-driven experience.

We intend to make this workshop the most celebrated event in the school amongst students and parents.

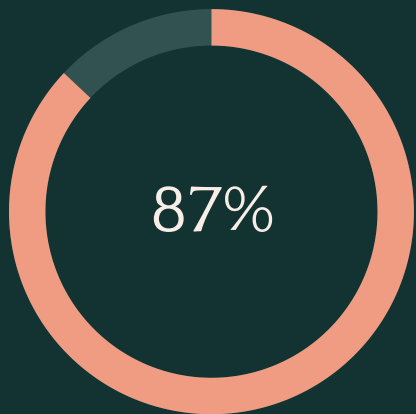

The Challenge (Context)

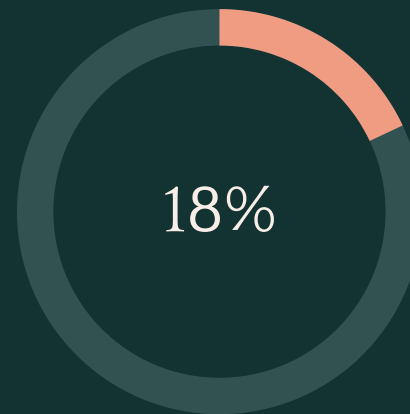

Your institution has built something exceptional — a world-class curriculum that develops well-rounded students through rigorous academics, sports, coding, and competitions. Your students are prepared for many things.

But one critical dimension remains: financial literacy and real-world decision-making.

The Evidence of U.S. adults said high school left them unprepared for handling money

(2025 Financial Literacy Crisis in America)

of OECD students lack basic financial proficiency (OECD PISA 2022)

of teens terrified about their financial future
(JA Teens & Personal Finance Survey, 2025)

of teens don't understand FICO scores
(JA Teens & Personal Finance Survey, 2025)

Our Approach

Fnomo Young Investor shifts students from passive learning to active participation. Rather than studying financial theory in isolation, students engage with real market data, make real decisions, and experience real consequences — all within a structured, supervised environment.

Why This Matters for Students

Students who receive financial education are 5x more likely to feel prepared for real-world money management.

1 Hands-On Understanding of Value Investing

Students learn enduring principles that compound over a lifetime. These aren't academic concepts — they're frameworks that will guide financial decisions for decades to come.

3 Ready for 2027 Young Investor Competition

Students can compete on a global stage, earning recognition for real financial thinking and achievement.

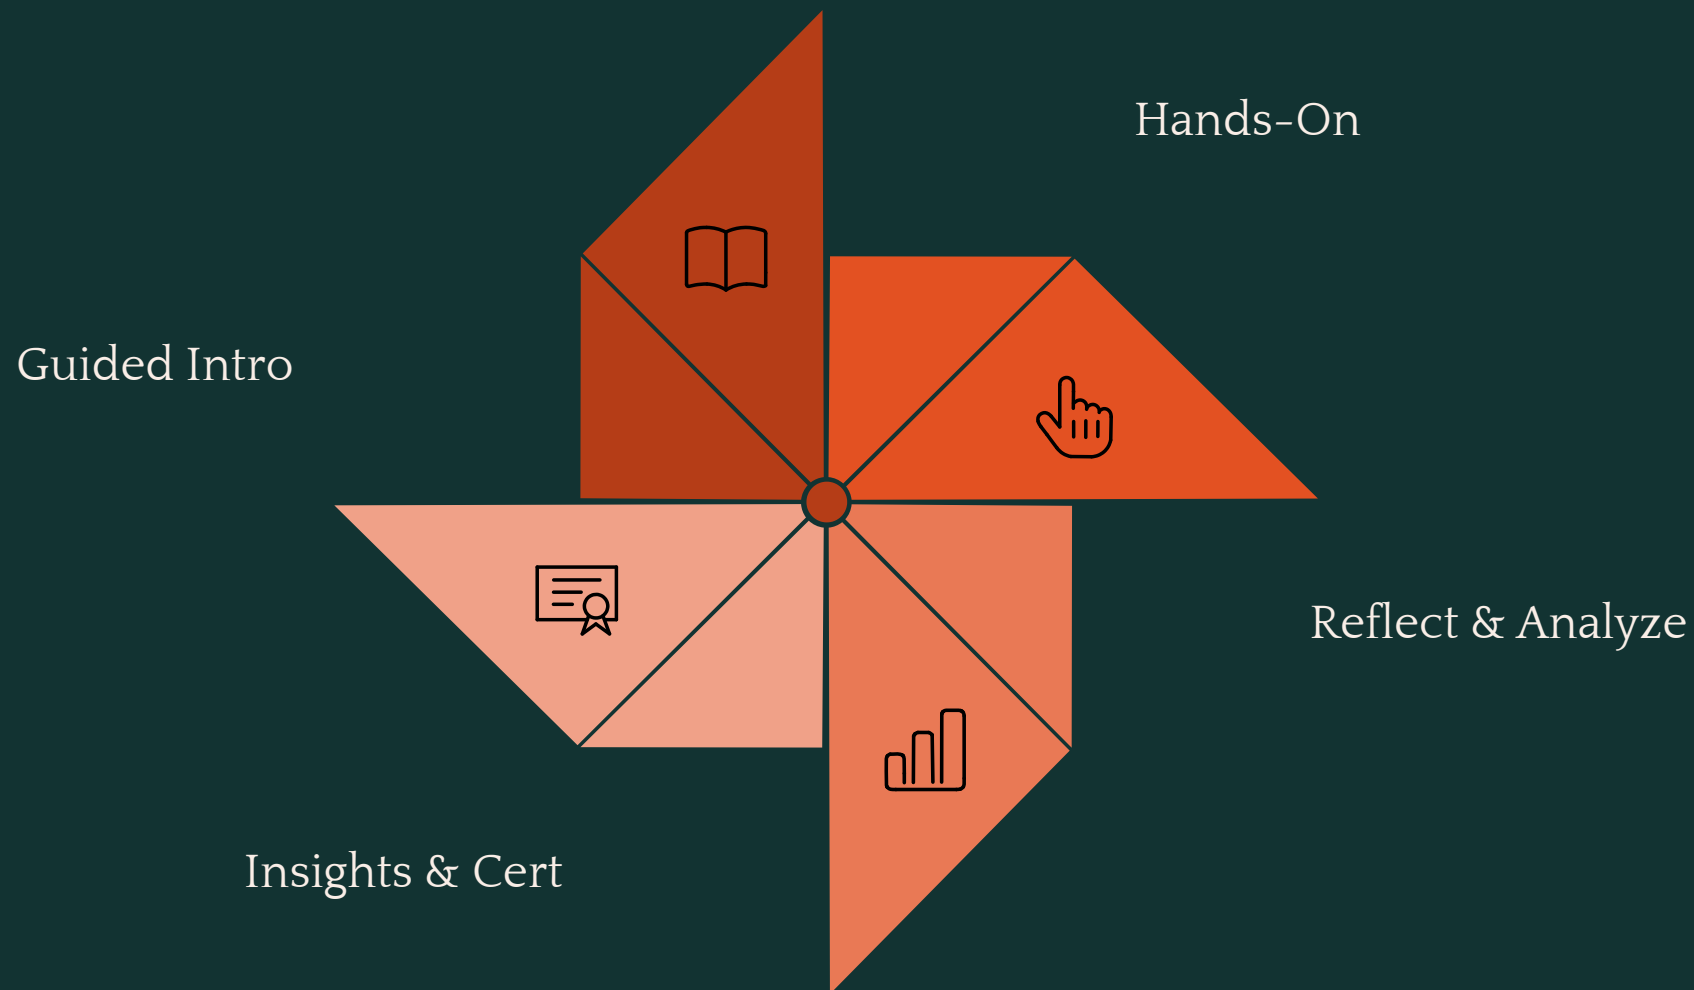

2 International Visibility & Community Access

Students connect with peers globally, gain exposure to diverse perspectives, and build networks that extend far beyond their institution.

Programme Structure

Fnomo is an instructor-led, hands-on, real-world learning experience. Students participate, interact, and reflect through structured phases — followed by performance insights and certification. The programme bridges the gap between earning money and understanding how to manage it.

Each phase is carefully designed to build upon the last — ensuring students develop genuine competence and confidence through progressive, structured engagement.

Programme Highlights

Real-World Decision-Making

Students work with actual market data and make decisions with real consequences—building judgment that applies far beyond the classroom.

Investment Fundamentals

A simplified, practical, and rigorous introduction to the core principles professional investors use—accessible to every student.

Dummy Portfolio

Students build and manage a simulated portfolio with zero financial risk and maximum learning impact.

Guided Participation

Structured support ensures every student progresses with confidence and develops genuine competence, not just participation.

Peer & International Learning

Students learn alongside peers from different institutions and countries—broadening perspective and building valuable networks.

Global Competitions

Students can compete internationally, earning recognition for disciplined financial thinking and achievement.

For Institutions

Fnomo Young Investor is not a generic workshop. It's a structured, high-impact programme designed to create measurable student outcomes and lasting institutional value.

Ready to Deploy

Fully structured, professionally designed, and ready for immediate institutional integration.

Performance Reports

Detailed student performance insights with measurable outcomes — shareable with faculty, leadership, and families.

Full Visibility

Complete transparency into student participation, learning outcomes, and progress across your cohort.

Academic Differentiation

A distinctive, celebrated programme that strengthens your academic offering and appeals to prospective families.

Roadmap to Young Investor 2027

A structured journey from financial education to global competition.

Phase 1: Workshops in Top 1000 Schools

May – December 2026: Workshops in Top 1000 schools internationally

Phase 3: Simulated Portfolio Creation

January – April 2027: Young investors create simulated portfolios tracked over 3 months

Phase 2: Join Young Investor Community

December 2026: Students join Young Investor Community and participate in investment-related discussions

Compliance & Safety

No real money involved

The program is purely educational at every stage, removing any financial risk for students and institutions.

No trading, transactions, or advisory

Fnomo Young Investor operates fully within educational boundaries, focusing on learning rather than financial operations.

Fully controlled, risk-free learning environment

We provide a safe and regulated space for all participants, ensuring a secure and constructive educational experience.

Founder's Note

"I designed Fnomo with simplicity – my 15 and 11 year old can understand financial analysis and wealth management. If they can, why can't thousands of other kids? Through initiatives like Fnomo Young Investor, we're building a strong financial foundation for the next generation and the country."

– Indu, Founder
